

Dementia-Friendly Airports Working Group

Resources for travelers living with dementia and care partners:

- How Dementia symptoms manifest at the airport
- Teepa Snow videos for air travelers
- Flight process: start to finish
- Tools and tips for travelers
- Hidden Disabilities Sunflower and emergency contact information
- TSA Passenger Support services for people living with disabilities

Resources for airports, airlines, TSA, and advocates:

- Working definition of a 'dementia-friendly' airport
- Staff training materials including Teepa Snow videos
- TSA guidance for security screening passengers with dementia
- Hidden Disabilities Sunflower program
- Environmental audit resources for buildings, way finding and signage

The Dementia-Friendly Airports Working Group (DFAWG) is a volunteer coalition of dementia specialists, care partners and people living with dementia, airport ADA/civil rights staff, airport customer experience staff, and others working to make air travel safer and less stressful for air travelers living with dementia and their care partners.

We welcome new members and inquiries from individuals, airports, airlines, and dementia advocates.

Dementiafriendlyairports.com

